

Kindy Room Philosophy

The Kindy Room offers a range of stimulating experiences to foster the development of each child. We believe it is essential for the carers to foster relationships with families to allow collaboration in guiding children development and their behaviours. We believe children held within themselves, something wonderful and something so special that it could be the key to change the world.

Children are inherent with the powers that can be developed if they are allowed to choose the experiences and are given opportunities to express their thoughts. In Kindy room children are grouped together in their mini society with different age groups.

We believe mixed age group allows children to develop socially, intellectually and emotionally. We provide opportunities to the children to practise their day to day skills. This helps children to enhance their concentration and co-ordination of mind and body.

We are working on all the senses for overall development of the children. In acknowledging the philosophy of Early Learning Years framework, Maria Montessori and Reggio Emilia, we reflect that our Kindy room reflects the process of rapid and significance change that occurs in early years as children learn and grow at their own pace and their interest.
